Property Highlights

Beautiful building lot with stunning views perched above a quiet creek that makes up its western boundary. A fabulous parcel in respected Bull Domingo subdivision. Large Ponderosas Pines and substantial rock formations characterize this gently rolling land. The site slopes gracefully toward Johnson Gulch which rewards you as a pretty, flowing tributary feeding into Grape Creek. There are some Aspens trees that quiver their hello and the broker would describe it as a "very private experience" to walk the property. Have high expectation as you drive in on good roads, taking in great views, and arrive at this primo building site. This is in a gated community on the outskirts of wonderful Westcliffe, Colorado.
